LODGE IN LINE?

Speculation in Washington is now centered on the possibility of former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, as the Vice Presidential nominee of the Republican Party.

Lodge, as the reader probably knows, has been the United States' representative at the United Nations for many years. Generally speaking, he is credited with having done a good job in that position.

It is generally conceded, among Republican professionals, that the strongest possible Republican ticket would be one with Vice President Richard M. Nixon as the Presidential nominee, and Governor Nelson Rockefeller, of New York, as the Vice Presidential nominee.

Events in recent weeks, however, have convinced all but the dreamers, that Rockefeller would have no part of a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket.

A Nixon-Lodge ticket would be a ticket of a Westerner and an Easterner and of entirely different personalities. Lodge is the polished Bostonian type, while Nixon is a Westerner, who is a practical politician, figuring all the angles, and always ready to conduct a hard hitting campaign.

It is questionable how much of a vote-getter Lodge might be. Then, too, since the Republican Convention follows the Democratic Convention, it is always in the realm of possibility that the Republicans will nominate a Roman Catholic for Vice-President, feeling that this would help in Eastern metropolitan areas.

Forty Billion Dollar Bill

Congress recently enacted legislation which will cost the taxpayers of this country approximately $40,000,000,000, in the form of defense for the 1960-61 fiscal year. This amounts to about 50 cents out of every dollar collected by Uncle Sam.

Ironically, action on this came rather quietly, in the last few days of the second session of the 86th Congress, without much reference to startling inefficiency and waste.

It would appear that the Defense Department is a reserved area. Often the most extravagant budget proposals are actually increased, while other essential departments are cut in appropriations. Money for national defense must and should have priority on the funds available, but we are much concerned over the utterly appalling size of the appropriations to this part of our government.

THE ATOMIC PLANE

An Illinois Congressman recently blasted the Administration for what he charged was tardy and cumbersome handling of the United States effort to build an atomic plane.

The Congressman, a Democrat, pointed out that almost a billion dollars has been spent in the past thirteen years, by this and other Administrations, developing plans and other data about an atomic plane. Yet, he charged, the United States was still five years away from realizing an atomic plane.

Unfortunately, the Congressman charges, the Russians now have an atomic plane about ready to fly. It is claimed that the Russians are only awaiting a suitable propaganda moment to launch the aircraft on its first flight.

The Congressman is putting his finger on a sensitive spot in the field of defense and military progress.

We have no way of knowing whether the Russians have reached the state of progress - in their effort to develop an atomic plane - which has been claimed. If, however the Russians have gained a lead of several years on the United States, in the race for this defense weapon, then serious repercussions must follow.

KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Why is weather called a westerly affair in the United States? Weather in this country generally moves from west to east. That is, the movement of fronts and the prevailing direction of the gas layer (which is our weather) is from west to east.

This movement averages 5 or 6 hundred miles on a normal day. Winds do not steadily come from the west because weather moves in a circular motion, even as it drifts eastward. Therefore, winds might come from any direction, while the weather is still moving east.

If you know whether a low pressure area is passing (counter-clockwise winds) or a high pressure system (clockwise) you can determine your position in the circular movement by watching the direction of the wind and its changes.

FAMILY PUTS 2,000 MILES A MONTH ON CORVAIR THINKS IT'S MARVELOUS

GAS MILEAGE "OUT OF THIS WORLD"

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kahelin of Plant City, Florida, couldn't be happier with the way their new Corvair has worked out as a combination family and business car. On their newspaper distribution route alone they travel more than 400 miles a week over all kinds of roads. Little wonder they're so pleased with the gas mileage they've been getting —"at least twenty-three miles to the gallon with an automatic transmission . . . and we've had no trouble with our Corvair." The Kahelins have equally good things to say about Corvair's easy-going comfort and unique convenience features. They especially like the way the fold-down seat doubles as a built-in baby sitter.

Pentagon Criticized

A recently released Senate report said that Defense Department estimates of the need for military housing were out of line with the number of men in uniform.

In releasing the report, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, (Democrat, of Texas), said closer cooperation by the department between military strength and the needs of the military family housing "would help to save taxpayers' dollars."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

Steadfast Love

Lesson for July 24, 1960

LONG AGO there lived a man by the name of Hosea. God marked him for a prophet, but perhaps Hosea did not know this until after his tragedy. For he went through a great tragic experience, one of a sort that cannot simply be tossed into memory's trash-basket and forgotten. Hoseas experience was one that left scars upon his soul.

The Woman In His Life

Hosea's story, told in the first part of the book which bears his name, is a puzzling one as it stands, and it remains a puzzle even when it is reconstructed. What follows now is a very widely accepted interpretation of that story, though no interpretation is beyond mistakes.

Dr. Foreman

There was a woman in Hosea's life; her name was Gomer, from the same Israelite people as himself. It is clear that he loved her, and that she bore him children. The names of the children, however, suggest that all was not well in that household. The oldest child was named Jezreel, the name of a well-known fortress city of those times. There was nothing odd about that way of naming children.

When the second child was born, Hosea (still not yet a prophet) gave her a curious name. It sounds strange in English; it was much more strange in Hebrew, the language Hosea spoke. Lo-Ruhamah, "No-Mercy" was the little girl's name.

Life's Bitterest Cup

Did Hosea give that innocent child that gruesome name because he had discovered that his Gomer was a woman without mercy? If he did, the third baby bore a name more sinister still. It was a little boy; and Hosea named him Lo-Ammi—"Not My People" or "No Child of Mine." He had lost all belief that his wife was any longer true to him; in fact he publicly branded her by giving the child that name. Gomer did what you might expect: she left him with the children, and he had the three of them to bring up by himself, trying to be father and mother both.

The Woman In The Slave Market

Long afterwards, Hosea found a woman in the slave market and bought her and brought her to his home. The interpretation of the story which we are following takes this woman (not named in the Bible story) to be no other than the lost Gomer. It is very likely that she was. It would de a delicate courtesy not to give her name, for she had indeed sunk very low, as the story shows. If it was Gomer, sure enough, then Hosea had discovered something besides his former bride. He had discovered in his own heart a love which bridged all the rifts and chasms that a wayward woman's merciless selfishness had cut across the fair face of their happiness. He discovered a love which was stronger and more enduring than anything.

Love of God

Other writers in the Old Testament speak to us of the love of God, but the word they used has often been mistranslated, or played down in the translating. The Hebrew word is now (in the Revised Standard Version) given its rightful meaning: Steadfast Love. The translators worked hard to find one word that would say what the Hebrew word says, but they could not find one. So "steadfast love" it is. Hosea's experience taught him two things. One was the depth of his own love, as we were just saying. The other was the depth and endurance of god's love. Hosea, who became known as a prophet, but never fully recovered from the shattering experiences of his early life, always spoke of God and Israel as husband and wife. Just as Gomer had been unfaithful to him, so the nation of Israel had been unfaithful to God. But just as Hosea's love was so steadfast that he could take back and care for a horribly damaged Gomer, so Gods love is steadfast in spite of his Israel's sins. Yet—we cannot suppose that Hosea, once his wife was at home again, did not care what she did; and we must believe that God, though he loves the sinner, hates the sin.
